Why They Matter

[TBD]

Heraldry

Crest: A formidable grey stone tower crowned with three turrets upon a white field, flanked by two black chevrons, with a single blue chevron positioned on the dexter side. The tower is rendered in careful detail with visible masonry and a portcullis gate.

Symbolism: The tower stands as the central symbol of the house, representing fortification, vigilance, and enduring strength. It serves as both a defensive bastion and a watchtower, ever-vigilant against threats; the tower embodies this unwavering commitment. Their motto, "For Ulian," suggests absolute dedication to their liege and homeland. The black and white coloring speaks to moral clarity and the stark choices of duty, while the single blue chevron represents loyalty and truth, the unwavering principle upon which their service is built.

Motto: "For Ulian."
