Why They Matter

[TBD]

Heraldry

Crest: Two interlocking golden rings positioned centrally on a shield divided into alternating sections of mint green and yellow in a quarterly pattern. The rings overlap at their intersection to create the appearance of linked wedding bands against the bright background. The rings are rendered in gold with careful attention to their three-dimensional form and the way they interweave, with additional decorative elements suggesting clasped or linked connections.

Symbolism: The wedding rings represent the binding alliances, strategic marriages, and interconnected relationships through which the house has built its power. The rings symbolize not just romantic unions but the chains of obligation, loyalty, and mutual advantage that have woven this house into the fabric of noble society. Their true strength lies in connections rather than direct force.

Motto: "Our Influence is Our Legacy."
