Why They Matter

[TBD]

(Note: House Yailk's Nationalist ideology, with its motto "Destroy our enemies and aid our people," stands in sharp contrast to the actions of Natav Yailk, who sold out Vikitsv to Solis to save himself. The irony is built into the canon: a house that preaches destroying enemies and aiding its people produced a man who did the opposite.)

Heraldry

Crest: A dramatic saltire of blue upon white, with a fierce black dragon displayed at the center. The dragon's red tongue is extended and its wings are spread wide in a posture of absolute dominance.

Symbolism: The dragon, the most powerful and terrible of heraldic beasts, embodies their uncompromising motto: "Destroy our enemies and aid our people." It represents both the devastating force they bring against foes and the protective majesty they extend over those under their care. The saltire (X-shaped cross) suggests conflict, crossroads, and decisive action. The contrasting blue and white fields represent the duality of their purpose: the purity of protection and the righteous fury of destruction. The dragon positioned at the intersection symbolizes their role as the fulcrum point between mercy and vengeance, always poised to act in service of their people.

Motto: "Destroy Our Enemies and Aid Our People."

The Fall of Vikitsv (~7,214 BR)

Natav Yailk of Torad was set to become the next Grand Sorcerer of Vikitsv after Sevtor's death. He was engaged to Enyokia Asleleri, eldest daughter of City Lord Ceval Asleleri of Torad. When Solis came to conquer Vikitsv, Natav secretly sold the country out in an attempt to ensure his own survival. His betrayal contributed to Vikitsv's swift fall. It bought him nothing. Solis executed Natav alongside Ceval anyway.

Notable Members

Natav Yailk of Torad ([TBD] - ~7,214 BR)

Grand Sorcerer-to-Be | Traitor of Vikitsv

Age 29 at story start. Natav was set to take over as Grand Sorcerer of Vikitsv following Sevtor's death. He was engaged to Enyokia Asleleri, eldest daughter of City Lord Ceval Asleleri of Torad. When King Solis of Aicruae conquered Vikitsv, Natav secretly betrayed his country, selling it out while trying to ensure he lived. He was executed alongside Ceval anyway, despite his treachery. According to an Equeateiy townsman, Ceval and Natav were "burned by fire." His betrayal made Enyokia's enslavement worse: she was betrayed by her own fiance.

Royin Yailk of Torad

Natav's Cousin

Age 16 at story start. Royin is Natav's cousin, also from Torad. Connected to House Yailk of Vikitsv through the Nationalist Party. Very little is currently known about Royin. [Further details TBD: What happens to Royin during/after the conquest? Was he in Torad during the attack? Does he survive? Was he aware of Natav's betrayal?]

Role in Narrative

Book Appearances: Book 2 (A Tale of Three Sisters), through Natav Yailk of Torad (traitor) and Royin Yailk of Torad (Natav's cousin).

Plot Significance: House Yailk's presence in the story comes through its most shameful member. Natav's betrayal of Vikitsv to Solis adds complexity to the conquest: it wasn't just external force, there was internal betrayal. His execution despite the betrayal proves that collaboration with Solis bought nothing.

Key Members in Story: Natav Yailk of Torad (minor character, traitor), Royin Yailk of Torad (minor character).
