History

War of the Gods

In the beginning, there were four gods, those gods were brothers, who were born of the same song.

These gods include the god of war and order Mikiani, The god of strength and sailors Poaranji, the god of dreams and the eternal plane Renedin, and the god of protection and wisdom Haxenylian.

This war started when Haxenylian the third of the four brothers met and fell in love with a human. Haxenylian and the women then gave birth to Zopha and Vapaz. (Zopha and Vapaz were new gods a concept, that was not thought about till their birth because around this time people's beliefs were also changing and with this change, new gods, including Zopha and Vapaz came into existence.)

The old gods especially Mikiani, detested this and he eventually turned the other two brothers against Haxenylian. The war of the gods officially started when Haxenylian human lover (Lady Gaialana) "died" (She was murdered by the god of dreams Renedin.) And the gods of old made plans to murder Haxenylian's children and the newer gods as well.

So Haxenylian allied with one of the minor old gods, most notably, Loart, to defend his kids and the newer gods.

The new gods won the war but both Loart and Haxenylian ended up dying as casualties. While Haxenylian did die in the war his son did become the king of the gods (There was no king before).

Divine Laws

1) Following his fathers death Vapaz set in motion a divine law prohibiting a mortal and an immortal from falling in love and having a child. [This is where the concept of saints came from, because of this law saints became adopted kids for the gods.] This law was called the first divine law.

2) The second divine law states that any God/Goddess that disobeys Vapaz will die the same way any mortal would.
